Beijing's stance that Taiwan is part of "one China", unlike her KMT predecessor Ma Ying-jeou.

Ahead of the vote, Tsai and DPP officials repeatedly said they believed China has meddled in the lead-up to the elections through a "fake news" campaign, which Beijing has denied. The KMT, which lost the leadership and its majority in parliament two years ago as the public feared it had moved too close to Beijing, framed the election as a vote of no confidence in Tsai, with promises to boost the economy and promote peaceful relations with China. — Reuters broker a deal that would reassure Madrid on how the Brexit treaties would apply to Gibraltar and give it a clear say on their application without reopening the texts.

Those assurances should form part of a brief statement agreed by the 27 EU leaders and added to the minutes of Sunday's hour-long meeting before the 27 meet May.

"Negotiations went on through the night with Spain

pute left hanging ahead of the summit and had turned into a stumbling block and Britain," one diplomatic source said. "In a telephone conversation just now, Tsai and Sanchez reached an agreement on Gibraltar. The summit will go ahead." The biggest obstacle to the Brexit accord overall is the vehement opposition in the British parliament. — Reuters
